

10-10-10

5 A blood hemostasis analyzer tests a blood sample and provides a parameter indicative of hemostasis. The blood hemostasis analyzer is communicatively coupled via the communication network to an analysis tool. The analysis tool includes an algorithm operable on the parameter to provide a result. The diagnostic result may indicate normal hemostasis, a coagulopathy or other condition, and may provide a recommended course of treatment.